

Reassessment Fate Rests With Assessor; 5 Republicans Ask New Housing Chairman

Resolution in Council Would Replace Yerry Democrats Calling for City Planning Before Action in Sixth or Any Ward

Lack of reports on planning or public housing at last night's recessed Common Council meeting indicated that the aldermen prefer a report first on planning, but they took definite action, without mentioning names, to seek replacement of George E. Yerry Jr., as chairman of the local housing authority.

A resolution signed by five Republican aldermen asking for a new housing chairman was unanimously adopted.

Propose Another Chairman

It asked that since Mayor Frederick H. Stang makes appointments to the Kingston Housing Authority, and that since one is due (that of Yerry) on Nov. 29, that the mayor name a successor.

It was the council's opinion, the resolution said, "that the man appointed to the chairmanship should fairly represent all people of the city at all times. It therefore, respectfully requests that a successor to the present chairman be appointed by the mayor."

Those Who Signed

It was signed by Richard V. Roth, 12th ward; Samuel J. Perry, fifth ward; George F. Norton Jr., sixth ward; William A. Davis, 11th ward; William S. Keyser, second ward, and George F. McCordle, 13th ward, did not sign the resolution, but went along in the voting.

The Common Council at its Sept. 4 meeting voted down a public housing project as first proposed for the Kingman Park area, and Yerry announced Sept. 5 that local officials and state housing men would confer Sept. 12 on a proposed sixth ward housing project.

Democrats Want Planning

Alderman Mayes had suggested that the sixth ward should be considered first in any move toward public housing, but minority members said it would be putting the "cart before the horse," to take any action on housing without first determining what is to be done about city planning.

Mayes had asked for a report on the sixth ward proposal in his resolution last week, but it was indicated last night that the council's finance committee to which a master plan proposal had been referred, will confer with the planning board before making a report on the recommendation. That meeting is expected to be held before the next regular council session.

Presents CC Letter

Alderman Keyser, meanwhile, forwarded for the record, a letter from the Kingston Chamber of Commerce which asked that qualified experts be engaged to prepare a proposed master plan for future development of the city, and that consideration be given for "area planning."

Conference of officials involved should be held to consider cooperative planning between adjacent political subdivisions, it proposed, and the should also consider the possibility of preparing a master plan for the entire area and possibly the whole county.

Quick Action Urged

The proposal by the Chamber of Commerce was along lines of one previously presented and noted that the need for many area public and private improvements are becoming evident.

Mayor to Appoint Yerry, Authority Elects Chairman

Mayor Frederick H. Stang, in a statement today, concerning last night's Common Council action aimed at replacement of George E. Yerry Jr., as a housing authority member, declared it was an attempt to dictate "the appointment by the mayor of a public official."

It was a repetition of other recent actions by that body, he noted, and he suggested that the council, in the future confine its acts within the limits of its constitutional authority. He said he would reappoint Yerry to the authority, which appoints its own chairman.

The Common Council last night the mayor said adopted a resolution in which they attempt to dictate the appointment by the mayor of a public official.

This is a repetition of the recent actions of that body to invade the constitutional authority (Continued on Page 2, Col. 7)

Tight Money Market Slows Up GI Loans Here, All Over

A gradual tightening trend in the money market, increased interest being paid depositors in savings banks and other savings institutions and the fact that some "semi-liquid" holdings such as government bonds are being offered at less than par, has caused a slowing up in GI mortgage loans in many sections of the country.

A survey of local banking institutions eligible to make GI loans, a loan made at not to exceed 4 1/2 per cent interest, indicated Ulster county institutions are joining this move and making fewer GI loans.

A halting of low interest rates and "cheap" money is part of a program of the Federal Reserve Board to control inflation and stop the upward spiral of costs and the decrease in the value of the dollar.

Wicks Calls for Unanimous Vote GOP Picks Javits To Oppose Wagner

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Jacob K. Javits and New York city's Mayor Robert F. Wagner squared off today for what each promises will be a hard-fought campaign for Herbert H. Lehman's U. S. Senate seat.

Javits, nominated unanimously yesterday by the Republican State Committee, served notice that he was through refuting reports that sought to link him with Communists early in his political career.

Ready for Action

"Let us get on with the business of this great campaign," Javits declared in his acceptance speech.

Wagner, designated as the Democratic nominee by a cheering, turbulent convention in the city's largest movie theatre, was championing at the bit with equal spirit.

"I'm not in this campaign half way," Wagner asserted. "I'm in with both feet. I'm out to win."

Start Making Plans

Both Javits and Wagner returned to New York city last night after their nominations. They were to devote much of today to mapping campaign plans.

Javits interpreted his nomination to mean Republican acceptance of his blanket denial of Communist associations. Some GOP leaders had been disturbed by the political implications in the allegations, against the 52-year-old former congressman.

Refer to Criticism

"There was apparently a great effort to stir up a storm about me out of bits and pieces of stories from 10 and 11 year ago," Javits told the GOP committee, adding that they were "bits and pieces completely refuted by my life, my record and my beliefs."

"Our party did not fall for this tactic," he continued. "On the contrary, it is a tribute to our party that it stood fast by the proposition that it would not tolerate rumors, innuendos, smears and political character assassination."

Doubts over Javits nomination were resolved by the Republican committee's influential executive committee, which voted 17-8 to endorse Javits. The endorsement was unanimous.

Democrats Reelect Maine Governor in Record Vote

Portland, Maine, Sept. 11 (AP)—Democrats hailed today a rousing Maine election victory which Adlai Stevenson said indicates that "the national trend to the Democrats is still gaining momentum."

Gov. Edmund S. Muskie won a second term with the biggest vote ever given a Maine governor of either party.

And, for the first time since the New Deal year of 1934, a Democrat was elected to Congress. He is Frank M. Coffin, 37-year-old Lewiston lawyer and chairman of his party's state committee.

Presidential nominee Stevenson's campaign manager, James A. Finnegan, called the Democratic victory "all the more remarkable in view of the way the Republicans made this a test of President Eisenhower's popularity and influence with the voters."

For the moment, there was no comment from GOP leaders—either state or national.

The outcome of another congressional race was so close it may wind up before the House Elections Committee.

Rep. Robert Hale (R) seemed to have won an eighth term in the first district by 72 votes over Democrat James C. Oliver, who as a Republican preceded Hale in Congress from 1937-43.

A tabulating error was responsible for an erroneous report that Oliver had beaten Hale.

The third district's Rep. Clifford G. McIntire had no trouble gaining a third full term—but his percentage was down.

The 42-year-old Muskie, son of a Polish immigrant tailor, became the first Democrat re-elected in a presidential year—at least since the Civil War. And in those days Maine governors had one instead of two-year terms.

In 621 of the state's 630 precincts, an unofficial tabulation rolled up 179,697 votes for (Continued on Page 5, Col. 2)

Local banking firms have

"slowed up" their GI mortgage loan programs and in some instances no new loans are being considered until the present "back-log" of applications has been cleared.

Have "Quota" Says One
One bank eligible to make GI loans said its directors felt they had their "quota" in comparison to "conventional" loans and "was not looking for new GI loans."

One of the Kingston financial institutions reported "about 25 per cent of our mortgage loans are GI loans" and the spokesman said while they had not stopped making GI loans, he said the bank was drastically cutting down on the making of new loans at this time. "We have a lot under processing and we are not looking to add new loans at this time," he said.

Comparison Made

One banking institution official said since GI loans are made at 4 1/2 per cent interest and usually only about 10 per cent of the purchase price was paid down, GI loans involved the lending of a considerable sum of money over that demanded on like properties where a conventional loan was made. Interest on depositors' money has been increased to 2 1/2 per cent in most savings banks and institutions.

Britain Seeks UN Solution Egypt Warned Two Ready With Force

London, Sept. 11 (AP)—Britain and France warned Egypt today they are ready to use force if necessary to protect their rights in the Suez Canal.

A high political source said, however, Britain would lay the Suez dispute before the United Nations as the next step toward a solution.

Eden, Mollet Determined

A communique issued by British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet said they are determined "to resist by all appropriate means any arbitrary interference with rights established under international agreements" in the Suez crisis.

Winding up two days of emergency talks, they declared themselves in full agreement on "further measures to be taken" in the light of Egypt's refusal to negotiate an international system for operating the canal.

These "further measures" were not spelled out.

A foreign office spokesman said, however, the measures will be disclosed in the British House of Commons, which meets in emergency session tomorrow and Thursday.

Form Considered

Just before the communique was issued a high British political informant said the Eden government had definitely decided to place the Suez dispute before the United Nations, but was still considering in what form this should be done.

The communique referred to the UN only in this statement: "The ministers recalled that from the outset their governments acted in full conformity with the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

They expressed their determination to develop their cooperation and to resist by all appropriate means any arbitrary interference with rights established under international agreements and any action incompatible with "justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law."

Mayes Advised Council Without Power in Case Mayor Says He's Checking on Arterial Route; Raise Sought for All Employees

A report on reassessment at last night's Common Council meeting indicated that its fate still rests with the city assessor, but the council's special committee on the program, said it was promised that adjustments would be made where they are found necessary.

First Ward Alderman Hirschell Mayes, (R) a member of the committee, who did not sign its report, still argued in favor of retaining the old assessment roll for 1957, but was told by Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy, that the council was not empowered, at this time, to act on assessment.

Raise Up to Board

The aldermen also learned, through a letter from Mayor Frederick H. Stang, that a proposed boost in salary for patrolmen rests with the police board, and the mayor also informed the council that he had made inquiries to determine what is to be done by the state on the city's arterial route plan and toward solving other area traffic problems.

A committee report failed to materialize on a requested $46,356.32 claim from the Board of Public Works for last year's snow removal, which was introduced at the regular meeting Sept. 4.

Referred to Mayor

A suggestion by Second Ward Alderman William S. Keyser, (R) that a group be named to coordinate action in the area in determining what is to be done toward fulfillment of the arterial route plan, and other area traffic problems was referred to Mayor Stang.

A bid for pay raises for city employees, in view of the one made for patrolmen, was made by Leon C. Studt, president of the local civil service employees association.

70 Employees Present

Studt said, in effect, that he hoped the patrolmen would get their $3,000 raise, but he felt that "all city employees should get the same consideration."

A group of 70 city employees was in the audience of more than 150 at the session.

Alderman George F. McArdle (R) 13th ward, as chairman of the special committee named last week on reassessment, said that he and the "other members" of the committee had met last night with the assessor, corporation counsel, and appraisers, and it was indicated that the process of adjustments was in progress through personal contacts.

'Human Error' Cited

It was explained, he said, that some grievances were brought about through "human error" and the appraisers proposed to correct them. A number of properties are under consideration, he said, but no upward revisions could be made after grievance day.

Members of the council, could not take any action, he said, but could make recommendations, "which we did."

Aldermen James K. Ryan (D)

Members of the council, could not take any action, he said, but could make recommendations, "which we did."

Says Appraisers Return

At many houses in his ward, Ryan noted, it was found that thorough examinations had not been made, but he had since checked, and found that appraisers had returned.

The committee did get answers, McArdle said. He couldn't say they were all satisfactory as to all grievances, and the committee had no definite assurance as to all adjustments, he indicated, but he said, "We can't call them prevaricators," until what they promise is proved or disproved.

Aldermen Give Views

McArdle held that the councilmen should have asked questions pertinent to the program long before now, and later Ryan said, he agreed with Alderman Richard V. Roth, (R) 12th ward, that the reassessment program was rushed.

It was his understanding of the original program, Ryan said, that the appraising firm was to complete its work and make a full report, the figures of which were to be published, and adjustments made before the full reassessment roll went to the assessor. The way it happened, he held, "the city assessor was the only one (besides the appraising firm) who knew anything about it."

Alderman Samuel J. Perry (R) fifth ward, said it was his understanding at the regular council meeting that Eric Murrill, district supervisor for the Cole-Layer-Trumble Co., the appraiser, was to be at the meeting.

Alderman-at-Large John J. Schwenk indicated that the council had not demanded that.

All Wrong, Says Perry

"I know more about my ward than you do. In the first place they did the whole thing wrong anyway," Perry said, and he then indicated that Mayor Stang had led him to believe some time ago that downtown areas might experience assessments cuts."

Perry charged that lack of sewers were not considered in his ward, nor did they consider the fact that "raw sewage" exists at a point only a short distance from the Kingston Point beach."

Says He Got Stuck

The alderman noted that the appraising firm had already been paid "over $40,000. The only thing left is the 10 per cent." (Payment to the firm.)

Attorney General Under FDR Dies

HOMER S. CUMMINGS

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—Homer S. Cummings, who fought many of the New Deal's legal battles, is dead at the age of 86.

The death yesterday of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's first attorney general was attributed to heart failure. He left only a grandson, Schuyler Cummings of Miami, Fla.

In Law Practice

Cummings had been in private law practice since retiring from the Roosevelt cabinet 17 years ago.

The longtime Democrat is remembered for his part in the Roosevelt administration's unsuccessful fight to put across legislation to empower the President to name one new Supreme Court Justice for each sitting member over age 70. Authorship of this plan, derided by its foes as a "court packing" scheme, was credited to Cummings.

During his six years as head of the Justice Department, Cummings was instrumental in broadening the powers of the FBI.

For about 40 years Cummings was active in Democratic party affairs, serving for a quarter century as national committee member from Connecticut. Last night, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler praised him for serving "his country notably throughout his illustrious career."

More than 30 per cent of life insurance policyholders in the U. S. today are children under the age of 18.

Democrats Plan

what it promises to our ears. It is a government with a false front. And we have had enough of it."

Stevenson said the Democrats' "first purpose" was to "write the people back in. With the people back in government," Stevenson added, "we can all move ahead to realize what your governor has called the 'new vision'—to build a new America based on freedom and opportunity and justice."

"New vision" was the slogan Gov. Harriman used in his bid to wrest the Democratic nomination from Stevenson at Chicago last month.

Referring to New York's almost solid support of Harriman, the former Illinois governor quipped that he was "happy" to be in Albany with New York Democrats. "There have been times of late when I was afraid you wouldn't let me in."

But Stevenson said Democrats "can afford to work out our differences in the open. The unity of our party is so solidly founded on the bedrock of leadership that contests for leadership do not shake it. They only testify to our vitality and independence."

Kefauver described Eisenhower as "an aggressive fighter for special interests."

Eisenhower, he said, "has fought just as hard on the side of the special interests as his party has."

The Tennessee senator, noting that the Republicans had announced the formation of "truth squads" to check up on the Democratic candidates, proposed that the Democrats "mobilize mop-up squads to demolish the myth men whenever they appear."

Kefauver said the Republicans would have a "hard time keeping up with us . . . because we travel fast."

Would Boost Fares

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—More than 40,000 New York Central Railroad commuters got a jolt on the ride home last night—they learned the railroad wants to boost fares an average 26 per cent. The railroad left booklets in each commuter's seat telling of the proposed fare increase and the company's reasons for requesting it.

GOP Will Probe State Fair Loss

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—The legislature's Republican-controlled "watchdog" committee will look into a claim that the 1956 state fair went a quarter million dollars into the red, it was learned today.

A spokesman for Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney acknowledged that Mahoney had received a letter from a Republican leader who estimated the big exposition at Syracuse, run by Gov. Harriman's Democratic state administration, would show such a loss.

The Mahoney aide said the senator sent the letter yesterday to Assemblyman William Horan of Tuckahoe, chairman of the joint legislative committee on government operations, which is known as the "watchdog" committee.

Horan said in Tuckahoe that he had not yet received the letter but added, "we would certainly look into any complaint that the state fair had had a substantial loss."

Horan said it would be up to the committee to decide whether a full-scale investigation was justified on the basis of a preliminary inquiry into the claim.

Chambers School Accepts Low Bid For Landscaping

The bid of King's Nursery of Kingston in the sum of $3,887.58 was accepted Monday night at a meeting of the board of education of the Chambers School, District No. 8, town of Ulster, for landscaping work at the new Chambers school. Other bids were Kelder Nursery $3,959.86 and Valley Gardens, Inc., $4,408.25.

A report was received from Architect Albert Milliken on progress of work at the school. He reported the work progressing satisfactorily and the building will be completed shortly.

Reginald Russell, principal, was appointed director of adult education. Plans are underway for the adult education program to begin in October.

Transportation of students was discussed at length and a number of problems solved.

Principal Russell reported all school room furniture had been received and was now on hand.

Designated to attend the convention of the New York State School Board Association at Syracuse in October was Principal Russell and also one member of the board.

It was also announced that Collector-Treasurer Mrs. Rose P. Peters would be unable to sit and collect school taxes between 6 and 8 p. m. on Wednesday, Sept. 12, since she had been called for jury duty that date.

Egypt Warned

steadily building up their land, air and sea power in the eastern Mediterranean, within striking distance of the Suez Canal. Britain has granted France military facilities on Cyprus.

But both nations have expressed a desire for a peaceful settlement.

The foreign office spokesman was asked if reference of the dispute to the UN Security Council was one of the measures decided on by Eden and Mollet.

He replied that would not be the only peaceful method of handling the situation, "but I do not rule it out."

Mollet and Eden began their talks last night in the light of Egyptian President Nasser's refusal to negotiate on an 18-nation plan to put the Suez Canal under international control.

See Grave Situation

The communique said they agreed that "the refusal of President Nasser to negotiate on this basis created a very grave situation."

They also discussed Nasser's sudden new proposal yesterday to set up an international negotiating body to seek a peaceful solution. The foreign office spokesman said Eden and Mollet "did not regard the Egyptian proposals as a contribution to an acceptable settlement."

The expression of determination to resist an Egyptian interference with what they claim to be their rights clearly suggested Britain and France have not ruled out the use of force—but probably only as a last resort.

Handicap is merely a single form of the two words, hand and cap, because before a race, all of the horses' names are put into a cap and each owner puts his hand in to pull out the position number of his entry.

cent in "many instances."

Another savings bank in the city reported, "we are still making GI loans as usual, but we are considering them very carefully. We have refused very few applications since we feel it is a service to the GI and we believe we should do our part. About 20 per cent of our mortgage loans are GI," he concluded.

Included in the survey were the two local savings and loan institutions which specialize in making home loans.

What They Say

Officials of the savings and loan institutions in Kingston had this to say in regard to the GI loan situation:

H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice-president of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, said the bank was not turning down any applications for GI loans but wasn't soliciting any either.

He agreed that the "money market" had tightened up but said the Savings and Loan Association hadn't been "running into any trouble with it here."

He pointed out, however, that applicants must have a substantial income so they can carry the loan.

Mr. Darrow said he rather doubted that the GI rate of 4½ per cent would be raised again pointing out that the GI Bill was due to run out within a year or two. The rate was raised once before from 4 to 4½ per cent. He estimated that approximately 40 or 45 per cent of all loans processed by the association came from GI's.

The GI loan is not as attractive as a regular loan, Mr. Darrow pointed out, when the margin between rates and payments is so small. The rate of 4½ per cent compares with payments of 2½ per cent on regular savings and 3½ per cent on systematic savings, he explained. The regular rate is 5½ per cent.

"There's no question but there's a shortage of money for veterans loans," Dewese W. DeWitt, executive secretary-treasurer of the Home Seekers Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, told The Freeman.

He pointed out, however, that applications were being received although the Home Seekers felt it couldn't take too many of them.

The association would hesitate to approve too many loans at the GI rate of 4½ per cent, he said, pointing out that the margin between rates and payments was small and calling attention also to the increased cost of doing business.

Mr. DeWitt said there was a "rumor" that Washington might increase the GI loans to 5 per cent.

"GI money was short once before," he told The Freeman, explaining that at that time, several years ago, the rate was raised from 4 to 4½ per cent.

He estimated that approximately 40 per cent of loans approved by the bank were from GI's.

Protests on Plane

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—The United States has sent a formal note to Red China which "strongly protests" the shooting down of an American Navy patrol plane off the China coast Aug. 23.

The American note, sent through the British embassy in Peking, served notice that Red China will be asked to "pay all damages" including compensation for the loss of the 16 crewmen as well as the aircraft.

The shooting down of the plane by Red fighters was denounced as "without warning" and unjustified.

U. S. Opposes Move

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—The United States in effect today threw cold water on Egypt's proposal that a new international conference be called to settle the Suez Canal dispute.

A State Department spokesman, commenting on Egypt's proposal, said flatly "it is doubtful that a further conference would serve a useful purpose."

Press officer Lincoln White told a news conference that nations representing more than 90 per cent of Suez Canal shipping were represented in the Cairo Conference with President Gamal Abdel Nasser which failed on Sunday.

Mayor to Appoint and responsibility of the executive branch of our city government, he added.

Mayor Stang further stated: "The Constitution of the City of Kingston, its charter, separates the powers of government into traditional form of executive, legislative and judicial branches. The executive branch is headed by the mayor, who is charged with the responsibility of operating the various departments of the government. The Common Council is the legislative branch, charged with the responsibilities for making laws, ordinances, etc. I suggest that the Common Council, in the interest of orderly government, hereafter confine their acts within the limits of their constitutional authority and responsibility and that they cease their attempt to usurp the constitutional powers of the executive branch of our city government."

I consider the chairman of the Kingston Housing Authority one of the most energetic and competent officials in the city government. He is trying to provide decent housing for those residents of our city who are living in substandard houses. The record of the Kingston Housing Authority is one in which we can all take satisfaction. It is classified as one of the best managed and operated housing projects in the State by the New York State Division of Housing. It has served and is now serving the useful purpose of providing fine housing for over 98 families from all sections of the city, regardless of race, creed, color or political affiliation. In three years of operation, it has not lost one cent in uncollected rents.

The chairman's term of office expires in November.

In recognition of the outstanding and conspicuously efficient service of the chairman of the City Housing Authority, I wish publicly to announce that I shall, with great pleasure and satisfaction, reappoint George E. Yerry, Jr., to the housing authority upon the expiration of his term.

AUTO SAFETY POST-MORTEM

After every big U. S. holiday weekend, the debate rages anew over what to do about the highway death toll.

Some of the lines of attack are obvious, and progress is being made. The roads themselves must be engineered for greater safety, with plenty of space, ample sight distances, the fewest possible number of friction points like intersections and side roads.

More safety has to be built into the cars we drive, and 1955 brought the first notable advances in this field. Current congressional investigations have tended to focus fresh attention on this need.

Stiffer enforcement of traffic laws is continuously urged, and now the cry is heard more strongly than ever. The argument made here is that, in the end, the human factor is the key in automobile accidents.

Many highway experts would agree, and they call for better and broader driver training as well as tight enforcement.

But there is still another aspect to the human equation in highway traffic which seldom is spoken of. It involves the real fitness—physical, emotional and mental—of many people to drive cars at all.

The average road test given prospective drivers in most states checks only the crude abilities of the motorist—his execution of simple hand signals, turning, stopping, starting, parking, and moving along at usually slow speed in traffic which may vary from light to heavy.

But the road conditions a driver may encounter over a year's time actually put him to far sterner test, and no one, not even he, may be sure until he is tried whether he can meet these situations or not.

The blunt fact is that handling a modern motor car properly calls for some physical strength, a high degree of alertness, and eye-hand-foot coordination which must be developed to the level of a genuine skill.

Now it is just not in the nature of things that every man or woman or youngster who plants himself behind a wheel will have these vital attributes in the requisite amount. By the same token, every person who picks up a golf club or tennis racket or power tool will not necessarily be equipped to handle it skillfully.

On top of this is the whole question of an individual's emotional stability, his physical reactions in a crisis, and so on. For his possession of the proper skills and basic physical attributes will avail him little if they tend to desert him in case of trouble.

In the hands of the unfit, the powerful car of 1956 is potentially a weapon of death, as traffic statistics plainly show. The opinion of some specialists is that the measure of real driving fitness today is far too lax for the road conditions which exist. They would say that until tests are made toughly realistic one great cause of highway accidents will not be eradicated.

SHORT AND SWEET

The many who have suffered from long speeches will applaud the honor paid to David F. Maxwell of Dallas, Tex. He has just been elected President of the American Bar Association, and if he lives up to his past record he will give no long speeches. His belief is that if a speaker cannot get his idea over in 20 minutes, he might just as well sit down.

Maxwell's stand recalls the story of the noted preacher and public speaker, Henry Ward Beecher. In 1884 he was active among the Republicans who bolted their party's presidential candidate, James G. Blaine, and helped to elect Grover Cleveland. A year later the bolters gave a banquet of celebration, with Beecher the chief orator. He began, "We were not mistaken in our man."

The applause that followed was deafening and prolonged. The speaker realized that he had made his speech, and he sat down. Many an orator could do worse than to follow Beecher's example.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
RED CHINA AND THE U.N.

It is impossible in a moral world to separate politics from moral law, although the Machiavellians, who reject absolutes of any kind, refuse to accept the moral law as a guide for political action. They favor a pragmatic expediency, but pragmatism can lead to disaster because what works today may be very unsound tomorrow, whereas certain fundamental principles, such as "Thou Shalt Not Kill," are everlasting.

George F. Kennan makes the point in an article that there is little hope for better relations between the United States and Red China. Then he adds:

"... I have never shared and cannot now share in the savage enthusiasm many Americans have worked up over the cause of keeping the Chinese Communists out of the United Nations. I fail to see the logic of this position or to understand the overriding importance people attach to the question. It is not my understanding that we ever objected on principle to the inclusion of Communist states in the United Nations..."

This attitude completely ignores the nature of the Korean War which was declared to be a United Nations police action and into which the Chinese Communists intervened with the object of defeating the United Nations forces. Eventually they put up a campaign to force themselves upon the United Nations. Their attitude could not be translated otherwise than an attempt to shoot their way into the United Nations. That cannot be other than an immoral act which needs to be defeated so that no other nation may have a precedent for dealing with a United Nations question by the use of force. As a matter of fact, since the Korean War, the Arab nations have resorted to force in their attitude toward Israel and the United Nations has been able to do nothing about it.

Since the Korean War, Red China has held a number of Americans as prisoners. Some were soldiers, some civilians, some missionaries. Negotiations for the release of these prisoners have been continuous for more than a year without satisfactory results. The Red Chinese are treating us contemptibly. It is impossible to deal with a nation that has no honor, no dignity, no truth. Until a new government, based on moral principles, comes into existence in Peking, there is no reason why we should deal with what is there now.

Mr. Kennan says.

"... And to scratch around now among Communist regimes to establish relative degrees of iniquity, entitling some to membership and others not, is an undertaking for which I personally have no stomach."

But we do not need to scratch around for relative degrees of iniquity. The iniquity asserts itself and there are just some things that are intolerable in nations as they are in man. One of them is lying; another is arrogance. We know that Red China lied when her propagandists throughout the world spread the story of germ warfare. Some may shrug it off as a clever press agent's stunt. It was a lie, a deliberate, cold-blooded lie designed to picture the United States as a barbarous, inhuman nation. That lie was so widespread that it is still believed. It was used as propaganda even by the Communist Party in this country. It is not necessary for us to condone that lie no matter how much satisfaction it gives other nations if we accepted that miserable publicity campaign as one of those things. We are morally on sound ground when we reject a nation that stoops to such methods.

I think that George Kennan misses the point altogether when he raises this question as he did in this article in the socialist magazine, "The New Leader." The issue is not whether when we vote a nation into the United Nations, we ipso facto approve of that nation and its way of life. Of course, we do not. The American people do not approve of Tito's dictatorship, or of Nasser's. Some Americans do not approve of Franco's monarchism. But in the case of Red China, the American attitude is not one of lack of approval; it is a matter of total rejection. That is why Congress has so often voted resolutions against the seating of Red China in the United Nations, threatening to withdraw the United States if Red China is admitted. There does not seem to be any moral alternative.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.
THE TRANQUILIZERS

When Sir William Osler made his valedictory address to the University of Pennsylvania in 1889, he chose the subject "Aequanimitas" which is Latin for equanimity meaning evenness of temper or mind, or calmness. He said, "In the physician or surgeon no quality takes rank with imperturbability as meaning coolness and presence of mind amid storm, clearness of judgment in moments of great peril." He was doubtful that it could be acquired except by inheritance and he thought that some of his students might never be able to acquire it. He counseled, nevertheless, that education with practice and experience might help to attain imperturbability in fair measure.

The mental equivalent to imperturbability which Osler considered a "bodily endowment" is a calm equanimity. He considered one of the first essentials in securing a good equanimity is "not to expect too much of the people amongst whom you dwell." He also recognized that prosperity is an aid to equanimity and enables us to bear with composure the misfortunes of our neighbors.

Now the question arises, can this equanimity, this calmness of mind and emotions, be obtained by drugs? At the most recent meeting of the Society of Biologic Psychiatry, the president, Dr. Harold E. Himwich, said: "A few short years ago it would have been impossible to read a paper on the new tranquilizing drugs but now we know that chlorpromazine and reserpine are valuable in the treatment of disturbed psychotic patients." Since that patent was read, other drugs have been added to the list, notably Fenelone, Miltown, and Equanil, according to Dr. Morris Fishbein in "Post Graduate Medicine." These are drugs which affect the brain. Both reserpine and chlorpromazine depress the mechanisms concerned with the patterns for emergency, for fight and flight.

The manner in which these drugs have their effect is not clearly established. However, some evidence indicates that a neurohormone called serotonin is involved. When it is insufficient in amount to produce its normal effects, abnormal behavior may be observed. "These new drugs are not a flash in the pan, but their treatment values have been widely corroborated. However, they are not a complete answer to our treatment problem because no one drug is able to help the condition of all the patients and none of them is as efficacious for melancholia as is electric shock."

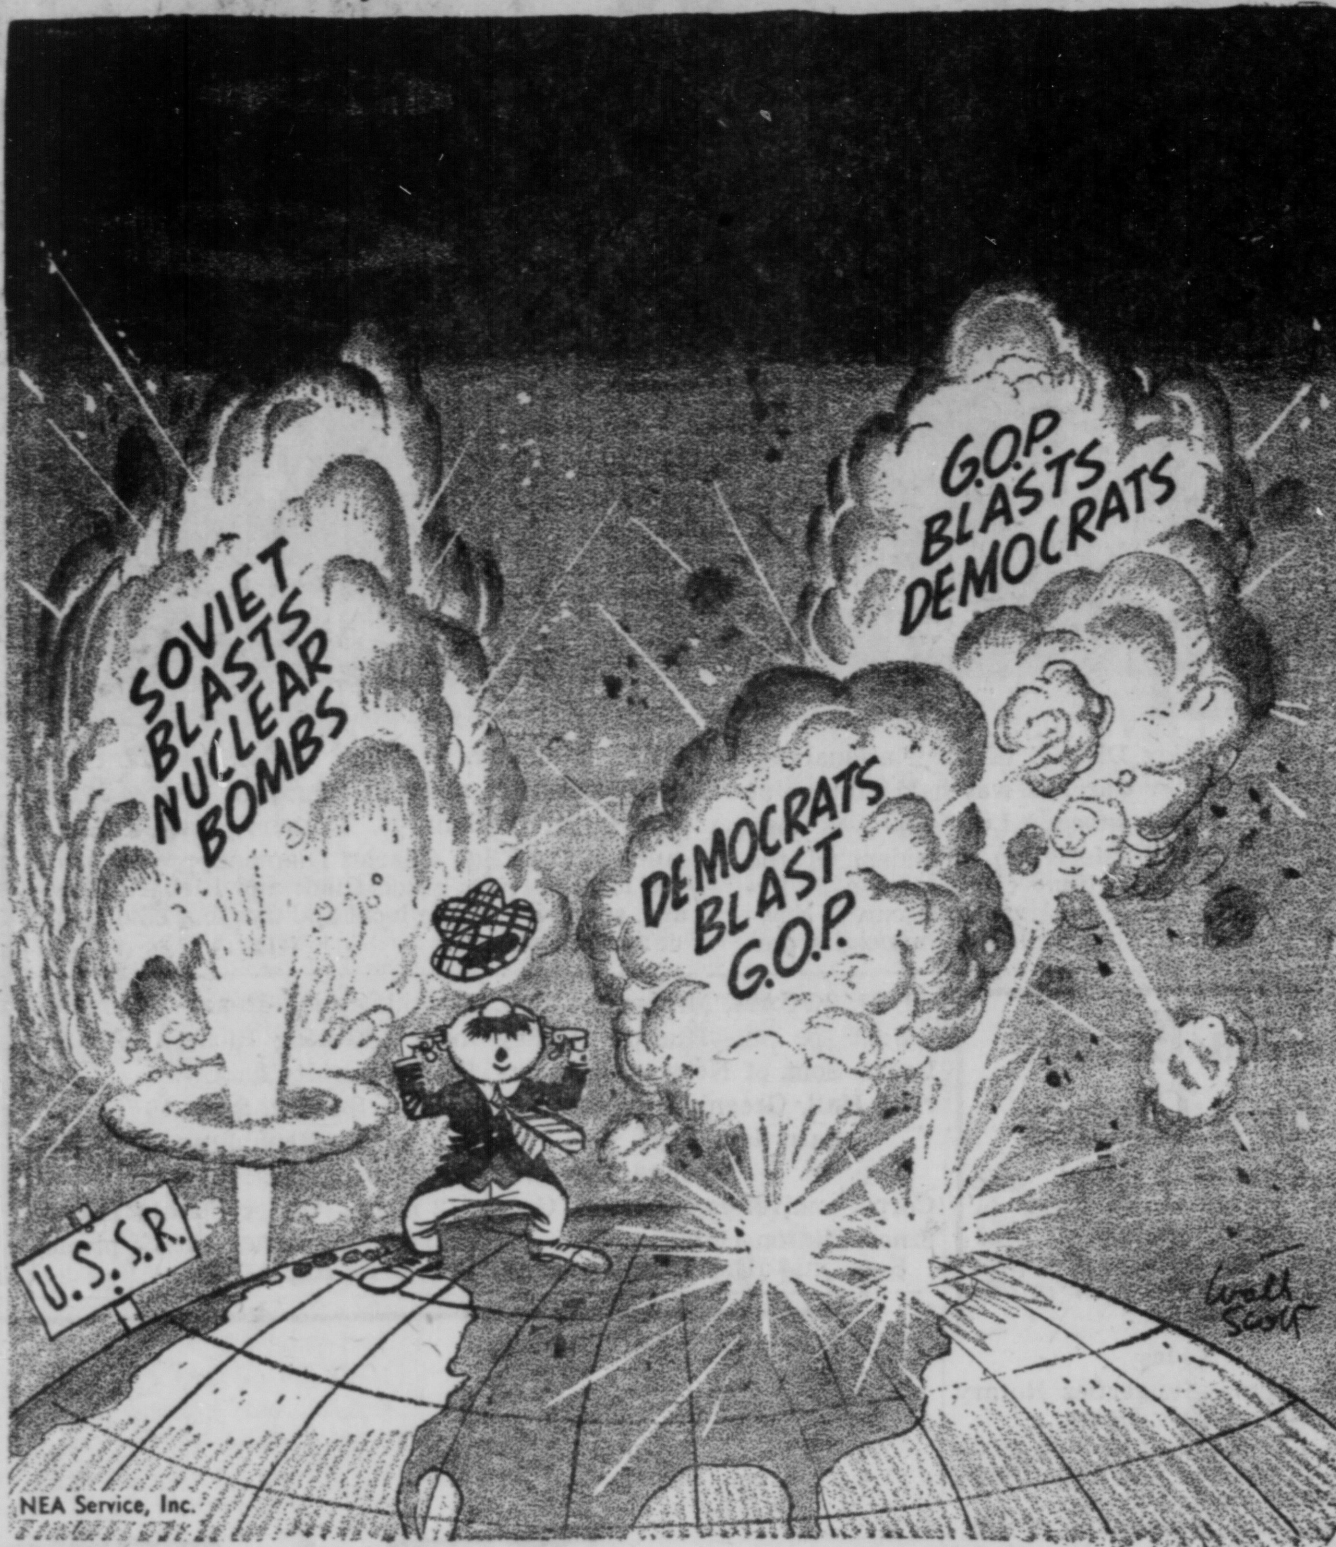

The discovery of new drugs of this type always sets up a chain reaction in which new fields are investigated and various combinations of new and old drugs are tested for special effects. In one study, reserpine and chlorpromazine were given in combination and the combination was said to have certain advantages over treatment with reserpine alone. The course of combined treatment was less stormy and less distressing to the patient because of the milder and shorter-acting period. Tomorrow we will consider more of these tranquilizing drugs which are being used so widely at present.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—(NEA)—Reading the new Democratic Fact Book and a companion Republican Speakers Book, you wouldn't think they were written about the same country.

The Republican version is that there's nothing wrong with the country today. The Democratic version is that there's nothing right.

Both books are pocket-sized, though the GOP book will fit in a slightly smaller pocket. They're arranged by subject matter, from Agriculture and Atoms through Taxes, Women and Youth.

Any candidate wanting to spout a political speech can do it easily by thumbing through the 100-odd pages of whichever one fits his prejudices. All he has to do is pick out the alleged "facts" he wants, then twist them to suit his purpose.

HERE ARE A FEW examples on how to confuse the voters: The GOP handbook says on page 92 that the Republicans made possible tax cuts averaging $100 per family.

The Democratic Fact Book says on page 25 that the tax bill of the average-income family has gone up under the GOP from $794 in 1952 to $809 in 1955—a $15 increase.

At first glance, they can't both be right, and yet they probably are. It figures like this:

Total individual income tax reductions resulting from the 1954 tax bill were around 4.5 billion dollars. There are approximately 45 million U. S. families. The average cut was $100 per family.

But this is entirely different from saying—as the GOP Speakers Book does on page 93—that the "GOP program in 1954 actually gave every family a $100 tax cut."

This was the average. Some families got cuts of more than $100 and many other families got less.

Some average families with average annual income of around $5,000 may have had their total tax bills increased if you include all excise and payroll taxes, as the Dem book says.

THERE IS ANOTHER example, however, in which the Democratic Fact Book tortures the language to give an impression favorable to the Democrats.

The Republican Speakers Book cites several examples of savings under the 1954 tax law: "Working widows can now deduct $600 paid for care of their children under 12—saving $120 on $3,000 income... The $3,000 family with $150 medical expenses can now deduct $60 from taxable income... Seven million persons receiving stock dividends get the first $50 tax free (saving $10 or more) and a four per cent reduction on the rest (or $8 saving on $200 balance from $250 dividends)."

This is the Democratic Fact Book comment on these cuts: "For every dollar of tax relief to stockholders (who comprise the top eight families out of every 100) the Eisenhower administration felt we could 'afford' to give—less than a nickel to working mothers—less than a dime to families with heavy medical expenses..."

Reading this hurriedly you may get the impression that the 1954 tax bill cut taxes to working mothers and families with heavy medical expenses only a nickel and a dime. It's tricky.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Sept. 11, 1936—Augustus Winne, of Sawkill, was fatally injured, when hurled from a wagon drawn by run-away horses.

Frank Forman, founder of the Up-to-Date Co., on Wall street, died in New York.

Ami Ellis died at her Napanoch home.

Elmore A. Post died at his home in Rifton.

Sept. 11, 1946—The education board announced appointment of several new teachers at local schools.

The Hudson River Day Line shortened its season because of a fuel shortage.

The education board denied the local Lions Club permission to use the high school auditorium for presenting the play, "Life With Father," on the grounds that such use was contrary to the state education regulations.

Employees of the Newburgh-Beacon News joined the American Newspaper Guild.

Nov. 5, 1948: "Bridges set up the Committee for Maritime Unity for the purpose of controlling our union from the outside (This was a Communist front) on Sept. 20, 1946, Curran had written his union owed the CMU 'a great vote of confidence.'"

Nov. 1, 1940, during the Hitler-Stalin honeymoon, "The Roosevelt administration was bent on destroying the militant trade unions. If it is re-elected under the smokescreen of national defense, it will immediately set about to smash our union." (The Communist line then opposed "rearmament" of the United States to help Britain and France. Roosevelt had used the Army to smash a Communist picket line at North American Aviation, Inglewood, Cal., which he called "a violent insurrection.")

The next two citations occur on dates before and after Hitler attacked Russia and clearly express the switch in the Communist line:

March 14, 1941: "We, the trade unionists, have got to organize and make articulate the overwhelming anti-war sentiment in this country. There is being launched a series of planned assaults on the trade union movement under cover of the war program."

Nov. 7, 1941: "Our position is clear. Our members do not have to be told that Fascism means the end of the free trade union emphasis to give the worst possible impression.

WHAT THE foregoing differences in interpretation show is that every voter has to be awfully careful of what he swallows this year. There are political medicine men abroad in the land today, trying to sell eyewash as good red likker.

Only eight of the first edition of "The Journal of Major George Washington," are in existence. It was printed in Williamsburg, Va., in 1754.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

San Francisco, Sept. 10—After today's installment I will lay off Joe Curran and the insulating impudence of the AFL-CIO toward the American people in naming this old Stalin stooge to the so-called committee on ethics which has the power to hand over all our ports to Harry Bridges or anyone like him. Curran now abuses Communists but the files of his own publication, The Pilot, official organ of the National Maritime Union, prove that this racket was a Kremlin front throughout the war under the presidency of the same Joe Curran. He may have changed but he might switch back and run with the Muscovites whom he joined in persecuting loyal Americans during the war. There are hundreds of decent Americans of unsullied loyalty who could have been picked for the same place on the committee on ethics of the AFL-CIO but imposters in command of the job-trust passed them all by.

Joe Curran's Pilot, expressing his own position, published the following comments on the dates given:

May 9, 1941: "There has not been sufficient expression of concrete support to the second Harry Bridges defense which is of the utmost importance to the labor movement. Our union would be far from the stage which it has reached were it not for the inspiration which the seamen derived from the courageous work of Harry Bridges."

May 30, 1941: "The only case the government has against Harry Bridges is that he is a champion of labor."

Nov. 5, 1948: "Bridges set up the Committee for Maritime Unity for the purpose of controlling our union from the outside (This was a Communist front) on Sept. 20, 1946, Curran had written his union owed the CMU 'a great vote of confidence.'"

Nov. 1, 1940, during the Hitler-Stalin honeymoon, "The Roosevelt administration was bent on destroying the militant trade unions. If it is re-elected under the smokescreen of national defense, it will immediately set about to smash our union." (The Communist line then opposed "rearmament" of the United States to help Britain and France. Roosevelt had used the Army to smash a Communist picket line at North American Aviation, Inglewood, Cal., which he called "a violent insurrection.")

The next two citations occur on dates before and after Hitler attacked Russia and clearly express the switch in the Communist line:

March 14, 1941: "We, the trade unionists, have got to organize and make articulate the overwhelming anti-war sentiment in this country. There is being launched a series of planned assaults on the trade union movement under cover of the war program."

Nov. 7, 1941: "Our position is clear. Our members do not have to be told that Fascism means the end of the free trade union

Today in World Affairs

Egypt Reminded West Fought, Sacrificed for Her Freedom

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 11—Just fourteen years ago—not a very long time in world history—thousands of British and French young men were dying to save Egypt.

If there had been no such show of force, Nasser today wouldn't have a canal to argue about. Maybe his boss would have been a Hitler and his government would have been a puppet of Fascism.

Sacrifices Forgotten

The world forgets quickly the sacrifices that are made in a great cause. The very countries which are crying out about British and French "colonialism" are strangely indifferent to the human sacrifices which were made by British and French and which today enable Nasser to claim "sovereignty" over the Suez Canal.

The Nazis, it will be recalled had two practicable routes they could follow to capture Egypt. One was from the south through Italian East Africa, and the other was from the west through Libya.

There were a number of battles of a critical nature. Some distinguished commanders—Gen. Wavell and Gen. Montgomery—were pitted against Gen. Rommel, the Nazi's military genius. When Mussolini declared war in June, 1940, he already had 200,000 troops in Libya, and on Sept. 13 they invaded Egypt. Three months later the British Army of the Nile pushed forward from inside Egypt and destroyed an Italian army of nine divisions. The British had more than 100,000 troops under Gen. Wavell.

Battles See-Sawed

Then in March, 1941, Gen. Rommel moved into Libya, and in April the famous siege of Tobruk occurred. Rommel figured that, if he could win Tobruk, he could invade Egypt. See-saw fighting took place in the area.

Rommel was on the attack again in January, 1942, and the British fell back. Eventually, on June 21, 1942, Tobruk was captured by the Nazi armies and the Allied losses were 23,000. Then the Allies retreated 325 miles to El Alamein in Egypt, about sixty miles west of Alexandria.

When, on Aug. 31, 1942, Rommel advanced, he saw Egypt as a glittering prize. Gen. Montgomery stood firm at El Alamein, where the big battle began on Oct. 23, 1942. It was a victory for the British. The United States forces were better able to come eastward through North Africa on account of the Allied successes in Egypt.

Allied Losses Were High

British Empire losses in North Africa from June, 1940, to the end of the war numbered 220,000 killed, wounded and taken prisoner. The French lost about 20,000. The American casualties were about 18,500.

It will be said, of course, that the Allies had a strategic objective other than the protection of Egypt itself. The danger that the Suez Canal might fall into the hands of the Nazis was, to be sure, a military fact that compelled the Allies to fight to save Egypt. But the situation today is much the same. Unless the Suez Canal is protected from falling into the hands of the Soviet Union and her allies, the Western Allies are in danger of losing control of the Mediterranean in the event of war.

Traditional Allies

Nasser has shown a willingness to play ball with the Communists. This means that he is ready to risk a fight with the western allies in order to have the Suez within his complete control. The people of Egypt have been protected by the British for many decades. Originally in World War I there was a danger that Turkey, then allied with Germany, might seize Egypt.

Throughout modern times the British and French have fought on the side of Egypt. The sacrifices made have given Egypt her chance. The net result has been ingratitude and a turning toward the enemies of the free world—the Communists.

Egypt's Debt to West

One wonders why many Americans are so ready to denounce Britain and France for their "colonialism" when so much blood has been shed to give the smaller countries the autonomy they have been granted by the British and French over a period of years. Evidently the sacrifices have been forgotten at Cairo. Maybe Col. Nasser ought to pay a visit to the battlefields of El Alamein, where the white crosses tell the story of what the British and French did to win freedom for the Egyptians and to assure safe passage of their ships through the Suez Canal. Democrats . . .

Muskie and 123,784 for Willis A. "Bill" Trafton Jr., 37, the Republican speaker of the Maine House.

The total of 303,481 was almost 6,000 below the record, but Muskie's vote was well ahead of the best previously given any governor — 172,113 for Republican Lewis O. Barrows in 1936.

Muskie got 59 per cent of the vote in yesterday's balloting, the first in the country this year. Two years ago he won his first term with 54 1/2 per cent of almost 249,000, beating Burton M. Cross, then the GOP incumbent.

In the last presidential year, Cross won a four-way race — there were two independents in the field — with 51.7 per cent of 248,441.

Complete unofficial returns from the first district gave Hale 50.03 per cent. The totals: Hale 58,027 and Oliver 57,955. Hale's lowest percentage in seven previous runs was 52.2 in 1954, when Oliver also was his opponent.

In the second district, Coffin defeated State Sen. James L. Reid (R) 55,425 to 48,350 for the seat from which Rep. Charles P. Nelson (R) is retiring. Coffin got 54 per cent, compared to Nelson's 66.2 in the presidential year of 1952.

GOP Picks . . .

dorsement was made unanimous on motion of Herbert Gerlach, Westchester county leader who had been supporting former State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern for the nomination.

Wicks Takes Action

Former Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks of Kingston, one of the leaders of the McGovern forces, moved to make the executive committee vote unanimous after the initial poll of the delegates indicated Mr. Javits had a 2-to-1 edge.

McGovern clinched it for Javits by placing his name in nomination at the open meeting of the full, 304-member committee. It was seconded by J. Robert Lynch of Lewis County, John Lamula of New York City and William Meissner of Nassau county.

There were no other nominations.

Petitions in behalf of General Douglas MacArthur were presented by Mrs. Robert Vogeler of Bedford Hills, wife of the American businessman who was held captive by the Hungarians in 1945, and a few years ago. But MacArthur's name was not placed in nomination. The general had said he was not seeking any political office.

Wagner Assured

Wagner was assured the nomination from the moment last week when he announced he would accept it. He had the support of all top Democratic leaders, including Lehman, Gov. Averell Harriman and Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee and featured speaker at the colorful Democratic state convention.

Lehman placed Wagner's name before the convention. Harriman and Stevenson, who along with Sen. Estes Kefauver, Stevenson's running mate, addressed the convention later, were warm in the praise of the 46-year-old New York mayor.

Wagner told the 2,286 cheering delegates and alternates that he had never been in a losing campaign and "I don't intend to start losing now."

Says People Aware

"The people of New York state and over the United States are not going to be satisfied with the usual pre-election promises and generalities," he asserted. "They are aware, perhaps more than ever before in our history, of the world situation and of our domestic problems."

Wagner said the Democratic party's task would be "to present a clear and definite program to the voters."

Javits saw the struggle to preserve world peace as the "over-riding issue" in the 1956 elections. The New York Senate race, he said, boiled down to the issue of "who can best represent the power and influence of 16,000,000 New Yorkers."

Democratic party leaders appeared eminently satisfied with the nomination of Wagner, son of the late U. S. Sen. Robert F. Wagner, who authored the famous Wagner Act on labor relations.

While Javits was the unanimous choice of the Republican committee, there was some discontent within the party towards his nomination.

One committee aide said Javits' nomination remained in doubt until the 17-8 vote of the executive committee. He said the split represented 17 votes for Javits and eight for McGovern.

Committee Secretary Walter Bly said that the vote was taken by show of hand and that he did not record the names of those who voted for McGovern.

Only 25 of the executive committee's 32 members attended the closed-door meeting.

Hale Holds Slim Lead in Maine; Recount Possible

Portland, Maine, Sept. 11 (AP)—Republican Rep. Robert Hale appeared to be 72 votes ahead of Democrat James C. Oliver in his bid for an eighth term on the basis of unofficial returns from Maine's Monday election.

The tabulation gave Hale 58,027 and Oliver 57,955 in the first district's 156 precincts.

Oliver told the Associated Press that "in view of the closeness of the contest there is certain to be a request for an inspection of ballots or a recount after the official tally is made public by the governor and council in several weeks."

Rep. Hale declined to make a statement before retiring last night. He was reported by members of his household to be en route to Washington.

Democrats Will Twist Facts Is Heck Warning

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11 (P)—Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck said today that New York Republicans could expect their Democratic opponents to be "careless with their facts" in the 1956 campaign.

He said in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of Republican Assembly candidates that the GOP also could expect "Governor Harriman and his followers to try to blame Republicans for Democrat failures."

The meeting was the first of three regional sessions designed to elect what Republican leaders term "a veto-proof legislature."

Other sessions are scheduled for Thursday in Rochester and Monday in New York city.

Heck said a third Democratic campaign tactic that could be expected was an attempt "to apply a false label to mislead the voters." He asserted:

"One of the most despicable of these false label tactics of the Democrats is to try to make their party, with its conspicuous array of millionaires, appear to be the poor man's party."

The speaker told the candidates:

"You have all read of Governor Harriman's attempt to take complete political credit for all of the progress in education and all of the increase in state aid, including that resulting from a higher birth rate."

Utahns Go to Polls

Salt Lake City, Sept. 11 (P)—Interest centered on Gov. J. Bracken Lee's bid for nomination for an unprecedented third term today as Utahns balloted in their primary election. Although there are a total of 118 contests—mostly minor—to be settled, the bid by the controversial Lee has gained the most attention. The governor's contest with Utah Water and Power Board Chairman George D. Clyde in the Republican gubernatorial primary and a heated Democratic gubernatorial race brought predictions of a record primary vote from election officials.

1,750 Homes Destroyed

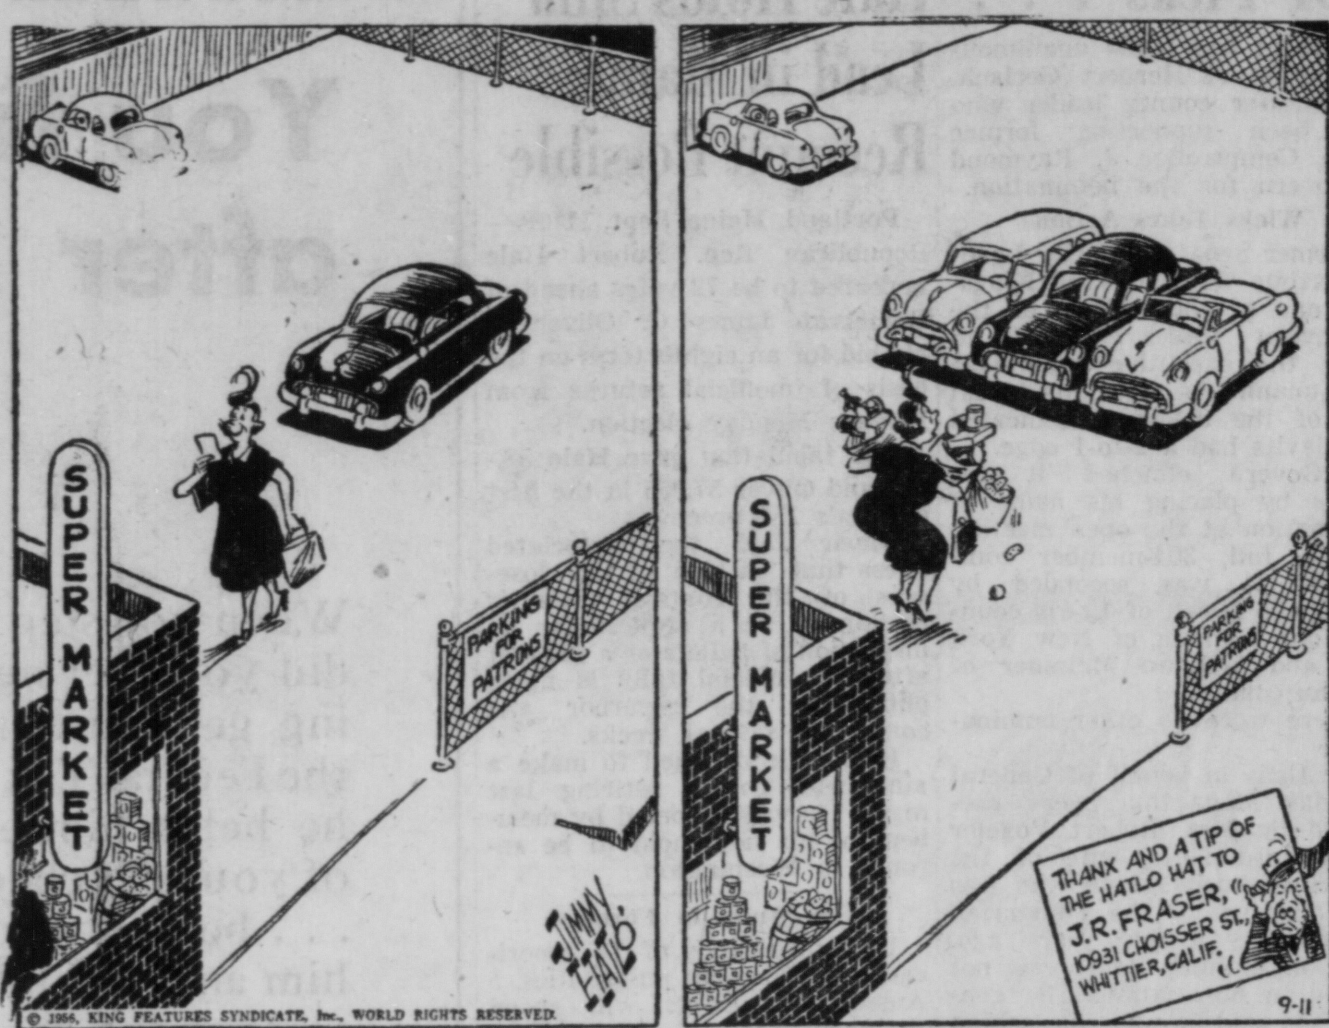

Uozu, Japan, Sept. 11 (P)—More than 1,750 homes were destroyed today by a fire that virtually wiped out the center of this city of 47,000 persons 150 miles west of Tokyo. A typhoon wind of 30 m.p.h. fanned the flames. Police said one person was killed, 22 were missing and 55 were injured. Firemen fought the blaze six hours before bringing it under control. More than 8,000 persons were left homeless. Authorities estimated damages at $4,150,000.

Damage $20,000 In Florida Blaze

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 11 (P)—Fire swept through 14 rooms of the Seminole Hotel in downtown Jacksonville last night, and one guest died—apparently of a heart attack—in the excitement. Deputy Fire Chief J. J. Harvey blamed "smoking in bed" for the blaze which broke out on the eighth floor of the 10-story structure about 9:30 p. m. (EST).

170 Evacuated

The fire was quickly controlled after 170 guests of the 240-room hotel were evacuated—some on firemen's ladders.

Several persons required first aid for smoke and cuts from broken glass.

James Demos, 70, a long-time resident of the hotel, was the heart attack victim.

Harvey reported a preliminary investigation indicated the fire originated in the room of H. R. Clements of Baton Rouge, La. He cited "smoking in bed" as the cause. A charred mattress was taken from the room.

Firemen H. W. Williams said he broke down the door to a room occupied by Harold Steele of Norcross, Ga., and led Steele to safety. Williams said when he entered the room Steele was on his hands and knees praying.

William M. Nolting, hotel manager, estimated the damage at $20,000.

Lord Moyne, 50-year-old poet, lawyer and vice chairman of the Guinness brewing firm, commented: "Astonishing, isn't it? There's no explanation for it—just one of those things."

Korea Veteran Survivors Advised To Visit Agency

Survivors of deceased Korean servicemen who are residents of Ulster county today were urged to visit Director Howard Shurter of the local Veterans Service Agency, for information and advice concerning the rights and benefits to which they are entitled.

Mr. Shurter said that many survivors of deceased Korean servicemen are unaware of the many rights and benefits authorized by the State and Federal governments to render them all possible assistance, and it is his desire that they be thoroughly informed so that they may take advantage of these benefits.

Director Shurter said that two such benefits that many survivors apparently overlook are death gratuity pay and Social Security Funds, among others.

Interested persons should contact the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street or any of the branch offices in Ellenville, Highland and Saugerties for complete information and assistance in securing their entitlements.

25 False Bomb Reports Probed

Chicago, Sept. 11 (P)—A New York State Public Safety official reported today that the New York authorities had investigated more than 25 spurious bomb threats in the last few months.

James R. Barrett, chief of the Police Bureau in the State Division of Safety, said the incidents had occurred in New York city, Rochester, Albany, Buffalo and several smaller communities. "The dangers of over-publicizing bomb reports can also be pointed out," Barrett declared in a speech prepared for delivery before the 63rd Annual Conference of the International Assn. of Chiefs of Police.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—The maximum speed limit on the state thruway for buses that

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Remember in the olden days when the Dayline Boats brought folks to Kingston Point and another boat took them away. I see in the Kingston Freeman and Journal of July 7, 1911, "The steamer Robert Fulton left about one thousand passengers at Kingston Point on its down trip Tuesday. They remained there for the up boat." I remember we used to do that too if we could arrange it. We would go on an early boat to Poughkeepsie or Newburgh, and then get on an upgoing Dayliner to come back to Kingston. That gave us an outing on the Hudson and at the same time a chance to go around a different city. Those were the days before parking problems.

That must have been a very hot summer and sudden heavy rains and lightning. One item reads in part: "The heavy rain of Wednesday afternoon came so suddenly and was of such volume for a few minutes that the sewers were unable to carry off the surface water. Some sewers were clogged and made additional work for the street department. A large tree was blown down by the wind at the corner of Broadway and Elmdorf street, Wednesday."

Although Kingston got plenty of rain, not a drop fell at Lake Katrine during the day. Hail accompanied the storm, but owing to the many telephone wires being down, definite information was difficult to obtain. There was some damage to fruit and apples and grapes were about half destroyed in some sections. Some summers we have had one heavy storm like that after another with the sky turning all colors. I think our climate is kinder now during the summer, although warm.

Two items cover the pages of the July 1911 issue. One is lightning striking many homes, and often killing people. In one they describe two men in a nearby village, who became overcome with the noon-day heat and so came into the house, and reclined on the floor near a fireplace, the coolest place in the house. The lightning came down through the fireplace and separated, killing one man and injuring another. Those who were outdoors and hid under trees also were hurt.

Another item that runs through the 1911 summer concerns aerial flights. It seems each city had its few aviators and money men in back of them who were trying to be the first in these adventures. One of the large stores in Kingston were featuring one of these events and it was written up in each issue until the plane fell in the creek.

One item reads in part: "Whether the aeroplane which Aviator Frank F. Fitzsimmons and his associates are trying to get in order to make a flight to Hurley and return can be immediately secured is not yet known." It seems this was the third machine they were trying to get as two others were wrecked. Item further reads: "We have now telegraphed for Dr. Greene's large Furman type machine at Rochester, and should we be able to procure it the flight will be attempted by us, and the people of Kingston and Hurley who have patiently awaited the flight, will be repaid for their trouble. We feel that our reputation is at stake, and shall live up to it, to the best of our ability. If we fail, it will be because we go broke, and we mean it." Those brave fellows made it possible, as time went on, for the successful aviation of today. Perhaps readers remember these flights that everyone watched. They did not go too high or too fast.

George Washington in 1793 was a guest of the first circus in the U. S.—that of John Bill Ricketts in Philadelphia.

May Quiz Ave On Spending for Unsuccessful Bid

Washington, Sept. 11 (P)—Senate investigators will consider questioning Gov. Averell Harriman of New York about a published report he spent two million dollars on his futile bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Chairman Gore (D-Tenn.) of a subcommittee investigating campaign practices disclosed this to newsmen today after a fellow committee member, Sen. Curtis (R-Neb.), proposed Harriman be called to testify between now and Election Day.

Gore said, however, he would be against bringing Harriman to the witness stand "unless we had something more substantial to go on" than the report cited by Curtis, a Drew Pearson newspaper column.

Gore added that Curtis' proposal nevertheless will be considered by the group. And the subcommittee's third member, Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) said he would be inclined to vote in favor of Curtis' suggestion.

The report Curtis quoted said Harriman offered to pay expenses of Democratic Convention delegates and also proffered such inducements as free whisky in an effort to win the nomination, which went to Adlai Stevenson.

Says Canada Leads

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 11 (P)—Lionel Chevrier, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said today Canada's industrial and commercial development during the last 12 years has been unequalled by any other nation. Chevrier, in a speech prepared for a cornerstone ceremony at the authority's $1,300,000 headquarters building, said that less than a quarter of a century ago Canada's natural resources were "barely suspected" and the country's participation in international affairs was negligible.

South bid a lot in today's hand, but it was all logical. The opening bid and rebid were routine. When North bid hearts, South had to suggest no-trump, since he had a stopper in the enemy's suit.

The final jump to five diamonds was based on North's bidding. North had bid clubs and hearts in an order that showed five clubs and four hearts. North had then supported diamonds, showing three cards in that suit. Obviously, North had a singleton spade, in which case game at diamonds was a far better risk than game at no-trump.

South won the first trick with the ace of spades and led a club towards dummy. If West held the ace, South might be able to set up dummy's suit; otherwise, South planned to cross-ruff. East took the ace of clubs and returned a trump, whereupon South put up the ace of diamonds. There was no immediate need to finesse.

South next ruffed a spade in dummy, cashed two top hearts and a top club, and ruffed a heart. He ruffed another spade with dummy's last trump, ruffed another heart, and got out with his last black card.

East had to ruff this card and return a trump, but South had no problem. It was clear that East was down to trumps only, and a finesse gave declarer the rest of the tricks and the game contract.

Rotarians Plan Indoor Auction

Rotary Club of Kingston has announced that arrangements are being completed for an indoor auction to be held later this month.

Donald B. Otis, Rotary's auction committee chairman said that on Sept. 26 at 7:30 p. m. many valuable articles will be auctioned at Kingston Buick showrooms, 2 Maiden lane.

The indoor facilities being offered will afford all those attending a well lighted, comfortable place to participate in the activities. Also parking facilities in the immediate vicinity will provide an additional convenience, Mr. Otis said.

Rotary's success with its radio auction Saturday mornings and the enthusiasm exhibited by residents of the area to these programs has prompted the scheduling of the indoor auction, he said.

All sums realized from the sale of auctioned items will be used towards the furtherance of the Rotary youth program. At the present time funds are needed for the Boy Scout program at Camp Tri-Mount, East Jewett, the Scouts' summer camp.

Contributions of any auctionable item will be welcomed from any interested resident of the area desiring to aid in this program. Arrangements have been made to pick up all such articles. The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce may be called by anyone desiring to contribute.

Those assisting Mr. Otis are Samuel Pepper, Victor Roth, William Teegan, Donald Cooper, Richard Whalen, Robert Gross and S. James Matthews.

Stock in Company Called Greatest Incentive of All

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, today urged that business executives consider rewarding salesmen "with perhaps the most lasting incentive of all—a share of stock in your company."

Such incentives, Funston said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Sales Executives Club of New York, are a "means of rewarding a man today with a tangible share of tomorrow, a way of showing him that, through dividends, he will share in the profits of every sale he makes in the future."

Funston spoke after receiving the club's 1956 "Applause Award" for his efforts in broadening share ownership of common stock.

Stock incentives, Funston said, can well become a way "to satisfy the age-old desire of every employee to own at least a part of the tools and facilities with which he works."

"In the corporate structure the sales executive and his people—more than anyone else—are in touch with the consumer," Funston said. "You will be performing a real service therefore if you sell the consumer on your company as well as on your product."

Era of Expansion

He said the United States is entering a decade of greater expansion which will result, by 1965, in a population of 190 million people, a labor force of 79 million and a gross national product of $35 billion dollars.

In the same period of time, financing corporate growth on a sound basis will require raising 60 billion dollars of new money through the sale of stock, he said.

Your companies, he continued, "will need a loyal and investment-minded public not only to buy your products but also to supply you with this venture capital. A blunt question grows out of these facts: If your product is good enough to sell, isn't it good enough to invest in?"

Makes Him Wonder

Funston said a recent stock exchange survey of stock ownership showed that only one executive out of four owns stocks, and added:

"This makes me wonder whether even executives are showing the same enthusiasm for their corporations as they are for the products of those corporations. It makes me wonder whether or not even executives have enough understanding and faith in the U. S. form of enterprise to want to share directly in its future."

Funston suggested shares of stock might also be used as an incentive for dealers and jobbers, instead of "trips dealers haven't time to take, and merchandise prizes they can find on their own shelves."

Labor Evisions Annual 6-Week Vacation Periods

Washington, Sept. 11 (AP)—Labor union planners today envisioned the time when workers may take six-week annual vacations or save up time for a year's trial retirement.

About 100 AFL-CIO research directors and union officials gathered to talk over the possibility of workers getting even more employer-paid free time.

In papers prepared for the conference none seemed to doubt that additional paid leisure is definitely in the cards for American workers. They pointed to government surveys showing an increasing trend to shorter work hours.

Forsee Arguments

But they foresaw considerable argument over what form the extra leisure time will take—whether as a shorter work day, shorter work week, additional holidays, longer vacations, or combinations of several of these.

Peter Henle, assistant AFL-CIO research director, said women workers probably will prefer time off each day to attend to chores at home.

"A traveling phone saved my cow!"

"One morning I found one of our cows stretched out flat on her side. It looked like milk fever, so I ran to the telephone and called the vet. He was out. But the operator said she'd keep trying to find him. She finally located him through the telephone in his car. He arrived within minutes, gave the cow an injection — and saved her. This incident made me realize even more how useful the phone is on a farm — for emergencies and everyday convenience."

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Are People, etc.)

WHEN ONE IS HANDICAPPED
"How can a man manage a handicap which is not evident without emphasizing it or showing himself up as unmannered? I had infantile paralysis in childhood which makes it impossible for me to lift either arm high enough to help a lady on with her coat. There are many times arising in which I have to either be ill-mannered or go into explanation which rather embarrasses me. My friends know or can be told, but in the other situations calling for my help I am at a loss to know what to say."

When really necessary, the best thing to do is to say briefly: "Sorry I can't help you; I have a bad arm."

Matching Rings?

Dear Mrs. Post: My engagement ring is of platinum, and the wedding ring which I have chosen is of yellow gold. Will you please tell me if this combination is in good taste, or whether I should choose a wedding ring to match my engagement ring as they will both be worn together. Please let me hear from you soon, as my wedding is not too far off.

Answer: You can have whatever you like. Many brides prefer gold for the wedding ring and they wear the gold ring next to the engagement platinum ring.

"Miss"

Dear Mrs. Post: The men in my husband's office call their secretaries by first names which I do not think is proper. When I went to business, which was quite a few years ago, the young women were always called Miss So and So. Has office protocol changed, or is it still proper for a secretary to be called Miss by her employer?

Answer: It is still in very best taste for an employer to call his secretary "Miss."

Have you wondered what to serve for a formal dinner, a buffet lunch or supper? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-25, "Menus for Every Occasion," will help you. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Parents Need Understanding, Writes Doctor in Book Intended for Teenagers

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Parents are people, is a point Ernest G. Osborne makes in his book, "Understanding Your Parents," to be published soon.

Dr. Osborne must know what a bombshell he is about to cast into the midst of the younger generation with this mild observation because he is the father of three children himself, in addition to being professor of education at Columbia Teachers College and author of several other books on family and school relations.

The current attitude of American young fry, as I have observed it, also from the parental viewpoint, is that parents are quaint antiquities somewhat like vending machines which dispense cash, goods and services on demand, but are to be ignored as much as possible when not in use.

I don't think the average boy or girl of high school age ever really either sees or hears his parents except on occasions when they become necessary for such practical purposes as giving out with allowances or lending the family car.

There is nothing quite so boring as the expression of a young daughter or son when being admonished by a parent to drive carefully, get home early and be sure to take a sweater. It will come as a great shock to these detached members of the new generation to learn that parents used to be adolescents, too, and that they had parents of their own. I'm not sure they will really believe that all parents don't believe themselves to be perfect, and that some parents are really afraid of their children. That parents actually have feelings, get their feelings hurt occasionally need cheering up is going to be pretty hard to swallow.

Dr. Osborne points out that being a parent is one of the toughest jobs in our modern world, where things are much different than they were a generation ago. When father was a boy, family relationships were much more clear cut. Parents were always right, and children were to be seen and not heard. The thesis on which most of today's parents were raised (usually quite successfully) was: "Spare the rod and spoil the child."

But modern theories of progressive education, of child psychology and self-expression have many modern parents thoroughly confused. They read that it's dangerous to spank Johnny, because he might grow up to hate people, and besides he should be allowed to express himself freely, even if expressing himself takes the form of throwing rocks through the neighbors' windows. They are told that when Mary misbehaves it's really the fault of either mom or pop, or both.

Today's parents are inclined to muddle along carrying a lot of guilt complexes, and tend to apologize to their offspring whenever a matter of discipline arises.

Parents need a lot of understanding and encouragement these days, to help them over their inferiority complexes. And maybe that splendidly superior younger generation will be willing to divide up a little of their own confidence, once they realize that parents are really people too.

MRS. STEPHEN E. PONTIER

Sallyann Palen Weds Stephen Pontier In Middle Collegiate Church, New York

The Middle Collegiate Church in New York city was the scene of the wedding between Miss Sallyann Palen, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Ernest R. Palen of New York city and Stephen E. For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of imported corded chantilly lace over taffeta, with sabrina neckline, short sleeves with matching gauntlets and a bouffant floor length skirt with scalloped lower edge. Her fingertip veil was attached to a bridal cap of the same lace. The bride carried white orchids and staphenotis.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Robert D. Jackson Jr., of Bedford Village, sister of the bride.

lon chiffon gowns with knife pleated skirts, pin tucked bodices and scoop necklines. Their headpieces were tiny caps of velvet ribbon and pearls with eye veils dyed to match the gowns. They carried cascade bouquets of Happiness roses.

Frank Curcio, cousin of the bridegroom, from New Brighton, Pa., was the best man. Ushers were Toner Giompa of Jackson Heights, cousin of the bridegroom, Robert Jewel of Harmony, Pa., and Lee Robinson from Saegertown, Pa.

THIS 'N' THAT
The grocery store in mem'ry dwells—a place of heavenly sights and smells. The grocer was a nice old man who never sold things from a can. Big tubs of butter stood about, all ready to be ladled out (to fresh tub butter, in the spring, a faint wild garlic taste would cling). A vat of sauerkraut was there, of luscious taste beyond compare. The coffee didn't come in tins. The grocer scooped the beans from bins. He dipped salt mackerel from a vat—and talked a while of this and that . . . The grocery store had had its day. The supermarket now holds sway. There, you may purchase food in cans and yard goods and electric fans. And auto parts and children's socks. And TV tubes and eight-day clocks. And sporting goods and bathing suits. And nylon hose and rubber boots. But, oh my friends, I'm yearning sore—for the old-fashioned grocery store.—Karl Falster.

A man called a dozen of his creditors together to tell them that he was about to go into bankruptcy.
Man—I owe you over a hundred thousand dollars and my assets aren't enough to pay 5 cents on a dollar. So I guess it will be impossible for you to get anything—unless you want to cut me up and divide me among you.
Up spoke one of the creditors: Creditor—I move we do it. I'd like to have his gall.

Sam got a dollar too much in his pay envelope. He remained quiet. The next week the paymaster discovered the error and deducted from Sam's pay a dollar. Sam protested loudly.

Paymaster—Well, you didn't complain last week when you were a dollar over.

Sam—No, because a guy can overlook one mistake. When it happens twice it's time to complain.

Mother Faces Murder

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—A young mother has been charged with first degree manslaughter after police said she admitted fatally beating her infant son last Saturday. Charged yesterday was Mrs. Louis Davis, 19, of Buffalo. Lt. Harry G. Klenk, head of the homicide squad, said Mrs. Davis had admitted beating her son Ronald, four weeks, with a feeding bottle. Klenk said she told police she was despondent over financial problems at the time. The baby died Saturday in a hospital. Police said his mother first told them he was injured in a fall from a bed.

Auto News Says Output Will Drop During Month

Detroit, Sept. 11 (AP)—The paper Automotive News says in its current issue that car output in September will drop to 235,000 units. That would compare with 402,537 assemblies in August. It would be the lowest single month's volume since October, 1954.

The paper adds that most new car retailers believe they will be out of 1956 model cars by the time their 1957 models are introduced. Few dealers, it reports, envision any losses during the outgoing model cleanup, and some think it may be the most profitable season of the year.

Registration figures published by Automotive News showed that retail deliveries during the first seven months of this year number 3,623,484. This compared with 4,165,020 in the same 1955 period.

Of this year's total, Chevrolet accounted for 946,837 and Ford division for 791,685. In the comparable 1955 period total, Chevrolet registered 905,912 and Ford 884,300. Chevrolet previously reported its retail deliveries were running higher this year than in the 1955 record year.

Other figures included in this year's total were Buick 339,122; Plymouth 301,539; Oldsmobile 276,495. At the same point last year Buick had 446,441; Plymouth 402,209 and Oldsmobile 342,733.

Calls Beer Good For Persons With Heart Disease

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—A Swedish doctor says beer is good medicine for victims of high blood pressure or heart disease.

Dr. Bertil Josephson said yesterday the beverage is beneficial for heart patients because it not only helps get rid of excess water in their tissues but also cheers them up.

Josephson said the kidneys of heart patients partly lose ability to excrete salt. The body retains water to keep the salt properly diluted and grows puffer and puffier. Beer helps the body pass off the water and the salt.

Josephson emphasized that beer does not cure the underlying

Labor Federation Endorses State Road Bond Issue

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—The State Federation of Labor today endorsed a proposed $500,000,000 state highway bond issue.

Thomas A. Murray, federation president, said in a statement he believed "every segment" of working people of the state would support proposition at the Nov. 6 election.

He noted that the bond issue did not carry with it any increase in the gasoline tax. He said that, in order to receive maximum aid under the new federal highway program, the state must provide matching funds.

To the Man Who is Hesitating...

There are many motorists in this community who have given serious consideration to the purchase of a new Cadillac car this year—and yet, for one reason or another, have not made the move.

If you are among them, we hope that you will pause to read the little message that follows.

Ordinarily, when a man hesitates to make the move to Cadillac, he does so because he is not familiar with the many practical aspects of Cadillac ownership.

Insofar as original cost is concerned, a Cadillac is eminently practical. Several models, in fact, are actually priced competitively with the so-called "medium-priced" makes.

Operating and maintenance costs are also remarkably low. We have heard it said by new owners that Cadillac is the most economical automobile they have ever owned.

And as for resale value—well, Cadillac traditionally retains a greater share of its original worth through the years than any other motor car built in the land.

In short, the great Cadillac car represents one of the soundest automotive investments on the highway today.

The moral of our message is this: It is still not too late to set things right in a 1956 Cadillac of your own!

We have a selection of new Cadillacs on hand—and we can promise you both prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance.

Why not come in today?

Sky Low Low Duo Wins Midget Wrestling Feature

Midget wrestling was fairly well received in its unveiling in Kingston last night as about 600 fans hooted and cheered the show at the municipal auditorium.

The mighty mites put on a lightning fast exhibition in the feature of a three-bout card. The other matches were among heavyweights.

THE WOMEN spectators were more responsive and boisterous than the men of the goings-on in the ring. Several overzealous members of the so-called weaker sex had to be restrained, no less, from tormenting the contestants.

Sky Low Low and Fuzzy Cupid teamed to win the tag team match over Little Beaver and Brown Panther. The bout went the maximum of three falls. The Sky Low Low tandem won the first fall in 14:45 on a body slam and press.

The second fall went to the Little Beaver duo in 9:30 on a flying head scissors. The end of the third fall came at 10:30 with a body press.

Sky Low Low weighed 89 pounds, Cupid and Little Beaver 98 each and the Brown Panther 97.

Baron Gattoni, sporting a long beard to match his shoulder-length hair-do, disposed of Lou Klein in 22 minutes in the opening bout. The Italian won with a body press over the Detroit. Gattoni weighed 280 and Klein 220.

SKY HI LEE, a veteran campaigner, defeated Tex McKenzie of Dallas, Tex., in the second bout in three falls. Lee, who is from Mark Tree, Ark., took the first fall in 15:02 and the third in 1:35. McKenzie was the winner in 3:45. Lee scaled 290 and McKenzie 285.

Joe Vozdik of Saugerties was the referee and Barney Williams, of Highland and Ben Morell, of Hudson, the judges. Joe Kelly, of the Freeman, was the timekeeper. The ring announcer was Dick McCarthy, also of the Freeman.

Net Stars Set For Denver Play

Denver, Sept. 11 (AP)—Big names in international tennis start firing today in the Colorado Open tennis tournament at the Denver Country Club.

Fourth-seeded Paul Remy of France, a member of his country's Davis Cup team, will be the first of the visiting "big names" to take the center court. He will go against Eugene Hlava, former Czech star who has become an American citizen since leaving his homeland.

Defending champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., the tournament's third-seeded player, will meet Bill Wright of Cheyenne, Wyo.

TOP-SEEDED Lew Hoad of Australia and second-seeded Sven Davidson of Sweden, the European champion, are not expected to play before Thursday. Davidson reached the semifinals of a tournament in Toronto Monday with a 6-2, 1-6, 7-5 victory over Hugh Stewart of California, who also will play here.

Hoad, runnerup for the men's national title, also is playing in the Toronto tournament but his Monday match was postponed because of rain.

Top-seeded in women's singles is Althea Gibson, Negro star from New York, who reached the finals of the nationals at Forest Hills Sunday only to lose to Shirley Fry.

Rocky Relates Well-Guarded Secret of Physical Troubles

Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight boxing champion, disclosed today that he has had a ruptured spinal disk since August, 1949, and an arthritic right elbow ever since 1951, just before the Joe Louis fight.

The revelations are made in Part One of the copyrighted story, "I Fought All the Way," in the current (September 15) issue of The Saturday Evening Post, in which he also reveals that his own physical troubles were rather a secondary consideration in his decision to retire last April 27.

WITH THE ASSISTANCE of co-biographers Milton Gross and Al Hirschberg, Marciano relates that boxing was good to him and gave him financial security, but it prevented him from leading a normal family life and kept him completely under the domination of Al Weill, his manager, who even told him when he could get married.

"The best I could get out of fighting again is more money," Marciano observes. "What good is money when I'm worried about whether my little girl's eyes can be straightened and she won't be cross-eyed? What good's another bankbook or another stock when my wife has a glandular condition which almost choked her to death one night last spring?"

Venturi Advances To Second Round Of Amateur Golf

Lake Forest, Ill., Sept. 11 (AP)—"It's a good course to get the jump on somebody. It's hard to get a lot of birdies out there and that's when you need to come back after a guy gets the jump."

That was Ken Venturi's size-up of the massive Knollwood course after he had won his first match in the National Amateur Golf championship.

IN LINE WITH this kind of thinking, the 56th national amateur shapes up as a contest between wide-open, 6,790-yard, par 71, Knollwood and a fine field of golfers just as much as it is a contest among the players themselves.

Walker Cup player Don Cherry said of the course: "It's so open you don't get any perspective. If there were only a few trees along the fairways you could line up your shots."

One hundred and twenty-eight players moved into the second round today.

Smoky Joe Conrad, the little Texas redhead who won the British Amateur championship last year, was an upset victim yesterday. Joining him on the sidelines were Bill Hyndman, last year's runner-up; 66-year-old Chick Evans, a two-time amateur champion; U. S. Senior champion Fred Wright, and a couple of others who have gone as far as the semifinals in recent years.

ALSO ELIMINATED was Dr. Ted Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., who reached the last eight in 1954.

First round winners included former champions Willie Turnesa and Dick Chapman and Bruce Cudd of the 1955 U. S. Walker Cup team. They were joined today by 56 players who drew first round byes—among them defending champion Harvie Ward, Billy Joe Patton, 1954 runner-up Bob Sweeney, and 1955 semifinalist Hillman Robbins.

Pugliese Leads ALL in Hitting

Dan Pugliese paced the American Little League in hitting with a robust .507 average, according to official figures.

Second was Ron Thomas on .491. Rounding out the top five hitters are Eric Broberg (.479), Mike Ferraro (.439) and Wayne Elmendorf (.421).

Nineteen players finished the season with averages of .300 or more. Here is the complete list: Dan Pugliese (.507); Thomas (.491); Broberg (.479); Ferraro (.439); Elmendorf (.421); Ed Corcoran (.420); Len Bovee (.420); Jay Harrington (.407); Tom Cioni (.403); Vin Smedes (.390); Jim Brock (.341); Hal Broskie (.340); George Tomson (.333); Bob Smith (.321); Charles Rand (.329); Vin Dempsey (.310); Bob Kennedy (.302); Tony Erena (.301) and Don Van Keuren (.300).

Syracuse Coach Shifts Halfback

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—Hoping to develop the second half of a one-two punch for his Syracuse University football team, coach Ben Schwartzwalder said yesterday he had switched Ed Ackley of Norwich from left to right halfback.

Ackley had been playing behind All-American hopeful Jim Brown at the left half post. Schwartzwalder said he plans to alternate Ackley with Jim Riddlon in an effort to keep the opposition from concentrating defenses on Brown.

Kroll's Good and Bad Luck Legendary in Golf Circles

Ted Kroll, who will give a golf clinic and play an exhibition match Thursday at the Wiltwyck Country Club, for 46 months was one of the luckiest soldiers of World War 2 and for nearly 10 years one of the unluckiest golfers ever to come up to the big leagues.

The luck of Kroll, pro and con, had become almost legendary before the wiry ex-army sergeant scored his double success of 273 record strokes and first prize of $50,000 in winning the world championship at Tam O'Shanter country club in Chicago last month. Seldom in the 16-year career of the world championship of golf has a victory been so popular and certainly more deserved.

KROLL, WHO celebrated his 37th birthday only eight days before his smashing triumph at Tam O'Shanter, served with the infantry in Europe from January, 1942 through November, 1945. Thrice within five months, the ex-caddie from New Hartford, N. Y., was shot down during bitter fighting on the Anzio Beachhead.

Each time he arose, was patched up and returned to duty. He received his fourth Purple Heart decoration some months later after surviving a shrapnel blast in Southern France.

When Ted was mustered out in the winter of 1945, he immediately returned to his first love—golf. He had caddied from the age of seven to 17 at the Onandaga country club in his home town.

IN 1947, HE took his first fling at the winter tour. On that initial journey, he scraped up earnings of exactly $225.

Kroll then took a summer post with Matt Kowal at Philadelphia's Philmont club for four seasons. Kowal helped him to the point where he learned more about golf in evening huddles with such other young pros as Milton Marusic, Doug Ford, Julius Boros, Bos Toskie and Bob Gajda.

The diligent Kroll's constant application to the principles of golf established him as one of the game's dependables. He collected his share of prize money and twice aided filled roles on the U. S. Ryder Cup team.

BUT KROLL was seemingly fated to be one of those solid golfers who finish well up, but never wear a major championship crown. Seven times he was involved in title playoffs. Six times in those he finished second. He was runnerup for such important honors as the Canadian and Western championships.

The season threatened to be the most frustrating of his hard-working career. Needing four pars to win the United States Open championship, Ted came a cropper with a seven on the par four 70th. In the final match for the 1956 national professional crown, he completely outplayed Jackie Burke through the morning round and most of the afternoon. In the end, Burke's flaming putter, accounting for a 15-one putt greens all day to a mere eight for Kroll, prevailed, and once again the plucky New Yorker had run second.

KROLL'S LUCK turned, at long last, in the world championship. His 72-hole score of 273 matched the world tournament record set by mighty Ben Hogan in 1951.

Kroll's date in Kingston is sponsored by the George S. May Engineering Co., of Chicago and is one of 50 exhibitions he will play for the sponsor of the famed world golf tournament.

Kroll will appear at 1 p. m. at which time he will give the golf clinic. Then he will play a foursome with Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill, J. Carson Hutchins of Woodstock and the host pro, Dave McMeekin of Wiltwyck.

Sullivan Defeats Troy In St. Nick's Feature

By ED CORRIGAN

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—Willie Troy started a six-month vacation today and John L. Sullivan, the fellow who caused it, went looking for new fields to conquer.

Until he met up with Sullivan, a curly-haired bloke from England last night, Troy bragged of a record of sorts. He never had lost a fight by a decision. He had been knocked out five times in his 40 previous battles, but never, mind you, had he been on his feet at the end and dropped the duke.

SULLIVAN TOOK

care of this little matter at St. Nicholas Arena and also broke Willie's jaw in the bargain. So Troy will be on the shelf until next spring.

Troy, strange to say, thought he had lost a couple of teeth. He felt a little pain on the side of the head in his dressing room later and told his manager, George Winn.

The latter called in Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission, who broke the news. The jaw was wired, so Willie couldn't do much except nod his head.

Sullivan, who is only 23 but already has had 88 fights (65 victories) was invited back to St. Nick's on Oct. 8, but no opponent has been found for him yet.

SULLIVAN HAD the better of it at the start, weakened in the middle rounds and came on fast at the end. There were no knockdowns, and Sullivan didn't wrap it up until he began to connect with a looping overhand right in the eighth.

Sullivan weighed 162 1/2 to 160 1/2 for Troy. Referee Dave Feld called it 6-2-2 for Sullivan while Judge Bert Grant had him in front 7-3 and Judge Artie Schwartz 5-4-1. The Associated Press had it 6-3-1 for Sullivan.

Showdown Series Opens Tonight

Buhl, Adcock, Aaron Set For Final Shot at Dodgers

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Bob Buhl, Joe Adcock and Hank Aaron, three guys enjoying their best seasons in the majors because they've murdered the Dodgers, get their last shots at Brooklyn's old gray mares as Milwaukee checks in at Ebbets Field for a two-game series opening tonight.

It could be the beginning of the end for the long-hectic National League pennant race. The Braves, in the lead since July 13, have a one-game edge over Brooklyn's second place world champions, who had the flag packed away by this time last season.

For the most part, it's been Buhl, Adcock and Aaron who have kept the Braves in front of the Dodgers.

Buhl, a 28-year-old righthander who never had won more than 13 in his three previous major league seasons, is 16-7 at the moment—with a 7-0 record against Brooklyn.

IN THE OPENER tonight he'll be up against Sal (9-4) Maglie, who is 1-0 vs. Milwaukee.

The only problem at the moment is the National League pennant winner. It could be Milwaukee, Brooklyn or Cincinnati. And a two-team or three-team playoff may be needed to decide.

Adcock has been the Dodgers' biggest headache. He never had hit more than 23 home runs in one season, but now has 35 and needs just two more off Dodger pitching to tie the NL record for homers against one club in one season. Billy Joe, driving in 20 runs against the champs—six at Ebbets Field and one off Maglie.

AARON? HE'S BEEN a pest to the Dodgers since spring training, when he batted .552 against them. At the moment, he's leading the NL at .328—with a .418 mark against Brooklyn.

The Braves, like the Dodgers, have 17 to play. They're 11-9 vs. Brooklyn so far, but Dodger Manager Walt Alston, unusually optimistic figures the Dodgers, playing 13 of their remaining games at home, are in a good spot.

"Our relievers (Clem Labine and Don Bessent) are rested and Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges are starting to hit," said Alston, whose champs haven't been in first place since April 28.

"UPTOWN," where his Redlegs are playing two at the Polo Grounds with the seventh place Giants. Cincinnati Manager Birdie Tebbets, taken back a bit by a three-game loss in St. Louis last week-end still see it "a three team race. Now three games back in third place, Birdie sees a "comeback" coming. "We have before, and we will again."

In the American League, the New York Yankees hit the road in Kansas City tonight, needing any combination of eight victories or Cleveland or Chicago defeats to clinch the pennant over the runnerup Indians and White Sox.

Blue Jays Face Playoff Jinx in Governor's Cup

(By The Associated Press)

There is not a team in the Eastern League that can boast winning both the pennant race and the post-season Governor's Cup playoffs.

It's been done in the Eastern—though not often. The four teams that can boast the double crown are no longer in the league.

SCHENECTADY'S champions will get a chance to snap the jinx as the playoffs get under way tonight. The Blue Jays will be host to last year's cup winner, Allentown, which finished in fourth place in the championship race.

Binghamton's second-place Triplets will meet Reading, in the other semi-final opener at Binghamton.

The same four teams entered last year's playoff. Allentown defeated Schenectady three games to two in the 1955 finals.

A repeat by the Allentown Redbirds would be the first since the Binghamton Trips won the cup two years running in 1952-53.

JOHN ANDERSON (8-5) has been named to take the mound for the Blue Jays against Allentown.

town's Ernie Palmeri (9-5) in the opener. Henry Mason (15-11), who pitched seven shutouts during the season, will get the nod in the second game for the Jays while Dick Bunker (17-8) is scheduled to start in the third game. Jim Hilland (5-5) and Jere Hill (6-8) will see duty for the Redbirds in the second and third games, respectively.

Bobby Locke (18-9), Vic Lapiner (17-5), and Tom Herrera (4-3) are scheduled to pitch the first three games against Binghamton's Zack Monroe (15-7), Steve Kraly (5-6) and Bill Bethel (11-2).

HOTTEST BATSMAN in the playoffs is Binghamton's third baseman, Dick Sanders. Sanders finished first in RBI's (94), runs (101) and triples (13), and second in percentages (.301) and second in home runs (20).

The last team to win the pennant and the Governor's Cup was the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Indians in 1950. Other clubs to win both titles were Scranton (1939-46-49) Utica (1947) and Elmira (1937).

Players benefit financially from the first four games of the finals. The winners get a two-third split of the players' pool, the losers the rest.

Youth vs. Experience

Boardman-Carter Bout Tonight Rated Tossup

Boston, Sept. 11 (AP)—It figures to be a tossup tonight when Larry Boardman of Marlborough, Conn., pits his youth against former champion Jimmy Carter's experience in a lightweight 10-round battle at Boston Garden.

Carter, a veteran of more than 10 years and 100 fights in the ring, has long been the spoliator for New England's brighter 135-pound prospects and he hopes to do it again.

Jimmy, 32, a New Yorker who has won the lightweight title three times, is well remembered in this section for the pounding he gave Boston's Tommy Collins and George Araujo of Providence in the past.

Boardman, a 20-year-old slugger who has won 32 of his 34 starts, has prepared for the biggest fight of his career by going 95 rounds during training—his longest workout so far.

Larry, who specializes in charging in against his opponent with flurries of lefts and rights, made his mark this year with non-title decisions over featherweight champ Sandy Saddler and the then lightweight king Wallace (Bud) Smith. His last was a ninth round knockout over Frankie Ryff.

For the Kids

Flint, Mich. (AP)—Flint's nine city commissioner's gave up a trip to the Michigan Municipal League meeting so children won't have to pay an extra five cents to swim in the city pools. The commission turned over $1,350 set aside for the league trip when advised that a deficit in park funds would make it necessary to boost swimming pool fees from 5 to 10 cents.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

New York—While Ted Williams was growling that, yes, he sure would spit at people who pay to see baseball, a working stiff was standing in the hot sun on a field in Roslyn, Long Island.

"When you bunt, don't look at the ground," he said to a 12-year-old Little Leaguer. "Keep your eye on the ball. Let's try it again."

The pitcher went into a serious-faced windup and threw. The kid gritted his teeth, laid down a near-perfect bunt with a Ted Williams model bat and hot-footed it down the line.

When he got home, the youngster grabbed the sports pages to read of his heroes and dream about when he might be laying down a bunt which would lead to a run for some big league club. He read, instead, of Williams, the big star, throwing his bat in the air, spitting at the fans, and saying he would do it again.

Working stiffs, off-duty cops, men of all lines put in hours teaching youngsters baseball, and the sportsmanship and good manners that should go with it. Then the ill-tempered Williams in a matter of seconds makes these fine people look like over-eager scout masters.

ORGANIZED BASEBALL quit discharging its obligation to youngsters with the death of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Commissioner Landis might have acceded to night baseball to some extent. But you can bet that the old man would not have permitted games to be piped into the home between shameless announcers urging youngsters to knock, knock for a certain brew or telling them that a particular brand of cigarettes makes a four-minute miler practically overnight.

Landis would have limited night games. Baseball played at all hours of every week-day night is not healthy for the business or its followers. Landis most certainly would not have permitted the money hungry and short-sighted owners to take the game so completely away from sunshine and the kids, who are the customers of the future.

With a do nothing commissioner packing no authority and league presidents who are rarely seen or heard of, major league baseball has gotten far away from the more wholesome approach forced upon it by the Black Sox scandal and Landis.

ORGANIZED BASEBALL risks more than its future box office in its present abortive set-up. Night games threaten the source of supply of talent. Because kids can't stay up all night every night to see the big game, they don't figure to play it quite as well, if at all.

Excuses offered for Ted Williams' downright vulgarity are based on a precarious childhood. He was unable to erase the scars, they say. That line might be accepted were he 18, but not at 38.

Williams either couldn't or didn't want to adjust himself to a game where the combatant is most vulnerable to wide-open criticism.

Because he could hit the ball better than anybody else, Williams was pampered and spoiled, and the Red Sox got around to doing something about his obscenities years too late.

Cuba Beats U. S. In Baseball, 9-7

Mexico City, Sept. 11 (AP)—Cuba scored five runs in the first inning and went on to a 9-7 victory over the United States last night in a world junior baseball championships game.

The victory gave Cuba a 1-1 count in the series and left the U. S. represented by the Blue Jays of Brooklyn, N. Y., with a blank. Puerto Rico defeated Cuba Sunday, and the U. S. lost to the Dominican Republic in the opener Saturday.

The Blue Jays staged a three-run rally in the ninth, which was cut off by Andres Ayon, who relieved Jose Caneiro and allowed only one hit and struck out two.

Plans Completed

World Series Set to Open Oct. 3 in National Park

New York, Sept. 11 (AP)—The World Series is officially scheduled to open Oct. 3 in the National League park—but it might be a bit later if the NL can't decide which park.

Commissioner Ford Frick set the date for the 1956 classic after a 90-minute discussion with representatives of the pennant contenders in both leagues yesterday.

THE FIRST TWO games will be played in the National League park, with the series then shifting to the American League park for the next three if needed in the best-of-seven championship. If more games are necessary, they'll be played in the National League park.

Ticket prices, the same as last year and including federal but not local taxes, are $10 for a box seat, $7 reserved, $2 bleachers and $4 for standing room.

All games will start at 1 p. m. local time, except on Sunday in

New York, when the start will be 2 p. m.

UNDER NL RULES, a two-team tie for first place means a best-of-three playoff. A three-way tie calls for a double elimination playoff which could drag on for five days.

Frick, noting the possibility of a tie in the National League, said there will be a one-day break between the end of the playoff and start of the Series, unless the final playoff game is played in the winner's park. Then the Series will begin the day after the playoff.

IF EITHER MILWAUKEE or Cincinnati wins the pennant, there will be a day's travel time when the Series shifts from one park to the other. If Brooklyn wins, and presumably then will face the New York Yankees, no travel time will be needed.

The Yankees need only a combination of eight victories and Cleveland or Chicago defeats to clinch the American League flag. Cleveland and Chicago currently are tied for second place.

All first division clubs were invited to yesterday's meeting, but Chicago and Boston passed it up in the AL, with St. Louis absent from the NL.

Basilio Confident Of Retaking Title

Syracuse, Sept. 11 (AP)—Welterweight champions have been playing with the 147-pound crown as if it was a bean bag for the last couple of years. In four of the last five title fights, the challenger has romped off with the jewelry.

Carmen Basilio, dethroned as boss of the welters by Johnny Saxton some six months ago, firmly believes the crown will bounce his way once more on Wednesday night when he meets Saxton, again in the War Memorial Auditorium.

Despite Basilio's optimism, the odds favoring him dropped from 8 to 5 to 7-5 and slightly under today. It would not be surprising if the 26-year-old Saxton went into the ring as a slight choice. In their last fight, Basilio was a 2-1 favorite over the fast moving, fast punching New Yorker. Saxton, more confident than ever, finished his training with a two round session with Prince Johnson at Summit, N. J., yesterday. He will fly into Basilio's home territory tonight.

Sturgis, Ky., Sept. 11 (AP)—Seven Negro students returned to their classes for the second straight day as racial tension at Sturgis High School eased off considerably. Red Admits Spying Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 11 (AP)—Anatole Ericsson, 46, a Russian-born maker of radar instruments, confessed in court today he had spied for the Soviet Union for 20 years. Ericsson testified the Russians asked him as late as 1953 to buy a villa on the Stockholm archipelago and to install a secret short wave radio station in it for use in event of war between Sweden and the Soviet Union. The stocky, dark-haired defendant is charged with grand espionage which could be "extremely harmful to Sweden's defenses in case of war." The maximum penalty is life imprisonment. Three Swedish Communists already are serving life terms here for spying for Russia.

change was authorized after a court hearing, and was on court order. The only power the council has in making changes, he said, was to correct manifest clerical errors.

Alderman Roth put on file with the city clerk a grievance from a taxpayer in his ward, which, he said, was not accepted, because it arrived late.

Roth: Inequities Greater

Roth contended that "we have more inequities than we had before." He noted that the assessor's salary was $5,000 a year. This he thought, the city might rather save, under circumstances, and at the end of 10 years, it would have enough for a reappraisal program.

The alderman noted that 900 filed formal grievances, and then asked, "How about the people, who didn't file?" He estimated that there would be 900 or "possibly more," of the latter. He said he agreed with Alderman Frank C. Sass, (D), seventh ward that changes, after grievance adjustments, should be published.

Disturb Economy, He Says

Roth contended that the appraisers didn't go into some houses and others they looked over thoroughly. "Why couldn't we hold a public hearing," he asked. The alderman said he had studied economics, and he felt that the reassessment program was disturbing the whole economy of the city, because of its effect on family budgeting. Roth said he was not interested in promises. "I just want action," he declared.

Mayor Stang's letter on Perry's police pay boost proposal, noted that authority on this rests with the police board, and noted relative to the proposal to use parking meter money for police department purposes, that all funds from city departments go into the general fund.

Under schedule 3, of estimated revenues, in the budget, the mayor noted, the parking meter sum is estimated for 1956.

Mayor Explains

"All estimated revenues," he said, "are placed in the general fund, and the total amount of such estimated revenue is subtracted from the gross budget, and the net budget results. Applying the receipts of one department against the expenses of that department would in no way affect the overall tax rate," he said.

Alderman-at-Large Schwenk, referring to the letter, discharged the special committee named at the regular meeting last week to consider the Perry proposal. Perry asked to be permitted to attend the police board meeting at which the proposal was discussed, and Schwenk indicated that he would probably be permitted to attend.

Inquires About Plan

The mayor's letter making inquiries as to the arterial route plan and other traffic matters was addressed to Kurt Rauer, state district engineer at Poughkeepsie.

It asked for detail as to the arterial plan, the situation with respect to the Washington avenue viaduct, what is to be done concerning relocation of Route 209 for the Hurley area to the IBM plant area, and construction of the Route 9W-Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge road.

Until the road connecting Route 9W and the bridge is completed, he noted, the city will bear all traffic from the bridge to the thruway, Routes 28 and 209, and Route 9W south. The mayor said he would inform the council as to developments.

Keyser Makes Proposal

Alderman Keyser offered a suggestion on the mayor's proposal and it was referred to the mayor. He proposed appointment of two members of the council, two from the Board of Supervisors, appointed by the board's chairman, a representative from the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, the Supervisor, town of Ulster, and such other members as the mayor may deem necessary, to consider the proposal.

The committee Keyser said, could "ascertain and coordinate the efforts of those interested, and bring to the attention of those in charge, the necessity for the speedy determination, and actual construction of the arterial plan, elimination of the viaduct, construction of the access road from the bridge to 9W, and the connecting link between 209, the thruway and IBM.

Alderman George P. Norton, Jr., sixth ward, noted that nothing had been done about his suggestions to correct a dangerous road condition in the area of Broadway and Stuyvesant street, and also a retaining wall in the area. Alderman-at-large Schwenk directed City Clerk Bernhard S. Kramer to communicate the inquiry to the BPW.

Also referred for consideration was a resolution by Alderman Sass asking for an amber caution light at Abeel and Ravine streets. Bernie Singer, of 71-73 North Front street, installed for a trial, an amplifying unit. Sass said sound in the council chamber was "good for the first time in quite a while" and Alderman Perry thanked him for bringing the unit.
